It was required for Cadence to communicate with their trading partner. Trading partner used to send/ receive data in EDI format, so we made use of Dell Boomi to integrate the two systems. Data received in EDI format from trading partner was converted and mapped to salesforce records inside Dell boomi and response from salesforce was converted to EDI format to send to trading partner. We designed a dashboard in salesforce where user could see all the Purchase Orders coming from trading partner in readable form and can conduct various operations on that data.
